

WORKSHOP FOR EFFECTIVE ICT CLASSROOM ACTIVITIES IN JAPANESE TEACHING AND LEARNING

日本語授業のための効果的な ICTの取り入れ方

MS. FUJIMOTO KAORU

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR
MUSASHINO UNIVERSITY, TOKYO, JAPAN

3 JUN, 2018 (SUN) 10:00-13:00 CPD-3.01, CENTENNIAL CAMPUS, HKU

The aim of the workshop is to enable participants to apply ICT to their own teaching in order to conduct effective classroom activities which used to be considered as difficult or impossible before the technology had become ubiquitous. In the workshop, participants are expected to seize the basic knowledge of the flipped classroom and the blended-learning, and explore examples of Japanese teaching through ICT. All are welcome but the workshop is especially useful to those who engage in Japanese language education.

ICTが浸透する以前では困難だった教室活動や授業実践等を、実践例を挙げながら紹介していきます。セッションの前半では反転授業やブレンディッド・ラーニングの基礎について概観し、後半のワークショップでは、実際に参加者のみなさんごとのようにICTを授業に活用していくかについてディスカッションをします。多くの機関で活躍されている日本語教師のみなさんご参加をお待ちしています。

Ms. Fujimoto Kaoru is Associate Professor in the Faculty of Global Studies at Musashino University, Tokyo, Japan. She has been teaching international students Japanese for nearly two decades. Her research interest lies in the utilisation of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) for Japanese language teaching/learning as a foreign language. Although her research output is strongly associated with distance/blended-learning for Japanese language, she is interested in the subculture of Japan such as Japanese comics and animations appreciated by a number of Japanese language learners in the world.
